Artist and Teacher Jamie McHugh has been teaching body-based work for the past 40 years and is the creator of Somatic Expression®, a unique synthesis of contemplative and expressive movement practices he has taught worldwide in universities, healthcare settings and studios. Current main focus is: “Embodying Nature” - a sensory-motor approach to ecological attunement, and “Embodied Mindfulness” – body-based contemplative practices for regeneration. <http://somaticexpression.com/>

A self-taught photographer, McHugh began photographing at 17 as a contemplative practice until his later in life debut solo show in 2007. Since then, he has shared NatureBeingArt in the world, both in traditional and non-traditional exhibit spaces as well as through the medium of online technology. NatureBeingArt videos blend images of the natural world with ambient music to accompany McHugh’s guided practices in sensory awareness and somatic movement for generating an enhanced appreciation of body and nature. The “Breathing Room” playlist showcases this evolving body of work: <http://www.naturebeingart.org/breathingroom2018.html>
